GoforGOLF has three major facets,
each with unique features
only now seen in such a format.

Score Keeper with Analysis

The analysis function has been designed to give all skill levels the opportunity to enter details of their game, and receive back analysis of their results.

“Just Like the Pros”

By entering information about your scores,
you can analysis your scores
in many different ways.
It’s up to you.

Basic Analysis - From the “Basic” level of hole by hole scores, you can receive a GoforGOLF report on your gross score, stableford, corrected score and a breakdown of pars, birdies, bogeys, etc. For a series of rounds on a particular course, you can also receive your average shots for each hole. Analysis is free and only requires you to register to get your “access number” so that your scores can be identified.

Advanced Analysis – The advanced analysis facility requires you to record and load extra information on your round. This includes fairways hit, up and downs, sand saves, number of putts and penalty shots. By entering these five extra items, you can receive up to twelve more analysis results of your round or rounds.

These include:

Driving Accuracy
Greens in Regulation
Sand Saves / Up and Downs percentages
Total and Average Putts and more . . .

If you are able to calculate your drive distance, you can also get your longest and average drive distance.

The Advanced Analysis function also allows you to analyse you scores for any period you wish. Compare your scores from one month to the next, from winter to summer, it’s up to you.

To assist you to record your advanced analysis requirements, GoforGOLF supplies the ability to print an analysis card for your chosen course.

*The more you load,
the more detailed will be the analysis.*

To receive the advanced analysis simply tick the Advanced Box when loading your scorecard.

Note: GoforGOLF provides the facility for you to receive analysis “Just like the Pros”, however, as the onus is on the player to complete their scorecard correctly, it is the responsibility of each player to ensure all your necessary scores and shot details have been entered into GoforGOLF correctly.

Course Information

To assist you to load your scores, GoforGOLF supplies a comprehensive database of course information of courses from around the world. This includes the scorecard for each course, and this is accessed when you are loading your scores, giving you an easy and efficient way to enter your scores.

Course Information can include course location, description and their scorecard for all tees, and for many courses, hole by hole descriptions with pictures, facilities available and live details of course conditions, local rules and more . . .

Is the course open today?

If the course you played is not in our database, then you can enter it into GoforGOLF, and immediately enter your scores against it and receive the analysis of your round.

To help you find the course you played, or to search for a course you would like to play, GoforGOLF has a course finder that will assist you to search for courses by country, location and even village.

Going on a golfing holiday?
Let GoforGOLF help you find the courses to play.

Participating club professionals can have a link to their Pro Shops, giving details of their products and services. Book your golf cart, hire your clubs or even book some lessons with the pro, before you start your holiday.

Club Notices and Results

For participating clubs, GoforGOLF supplies Club Notice Boards and Results Boards.

Club Notices - All the information that a club member would require can be found on the Notice Board whenever and from wherever they are. The latest news, upcoming events and tournaments . . .

Tournament Results – If you are playing in a tournament, then check how you and your fellow players are going. Who is in the lead and how many strokes are you behind?

Sports Information Management Ltd

GoforGOLF is a joint venture between Sports Information Management Ltd and Evans Information Services Ltd, experts in Internet database developments. The GoforGOLF development has been undertaken by a concise group of complementary people. This small group means that all are personally involved and committed to the project.

Sports Information Management Ltd's aim is to produce web sites for sports that give all players and participants, no matter what their level, the opportunity to receive analysis and assistance “Just like the Pros”. Further to this ambition is to supply the sports clubs with a facility, by use of the internet, to provide their members and the general public with news and results that are up to date and where possible live.

We believe that, in GoforGOLF, we have created an international standard web site which has achieved this aim. We are also very pleased that, in achieving this, we are able to showcase the golf courses of New Zealand and the world.
